

LIQUID CRYSTAL DISPLAY

Abstract

A liquid crystal display includes a first panel positioned on a front surface of a backlight unit, and a second panel positioned on a back surface of the backlight unit. The backlight unit provides lights to both of the first panel and the second panel, thus enabling either of the panels to display images.